STARTER, STEP 7

Let Claude read your calendar.

Connectors: the same question, before and after.

Start with a separate test calendar, not your real one.

WHERE

Connect once, then switch it on per chat.

1. claude.ai > Customize > Connectors

2. Find Google Calendar > Connect

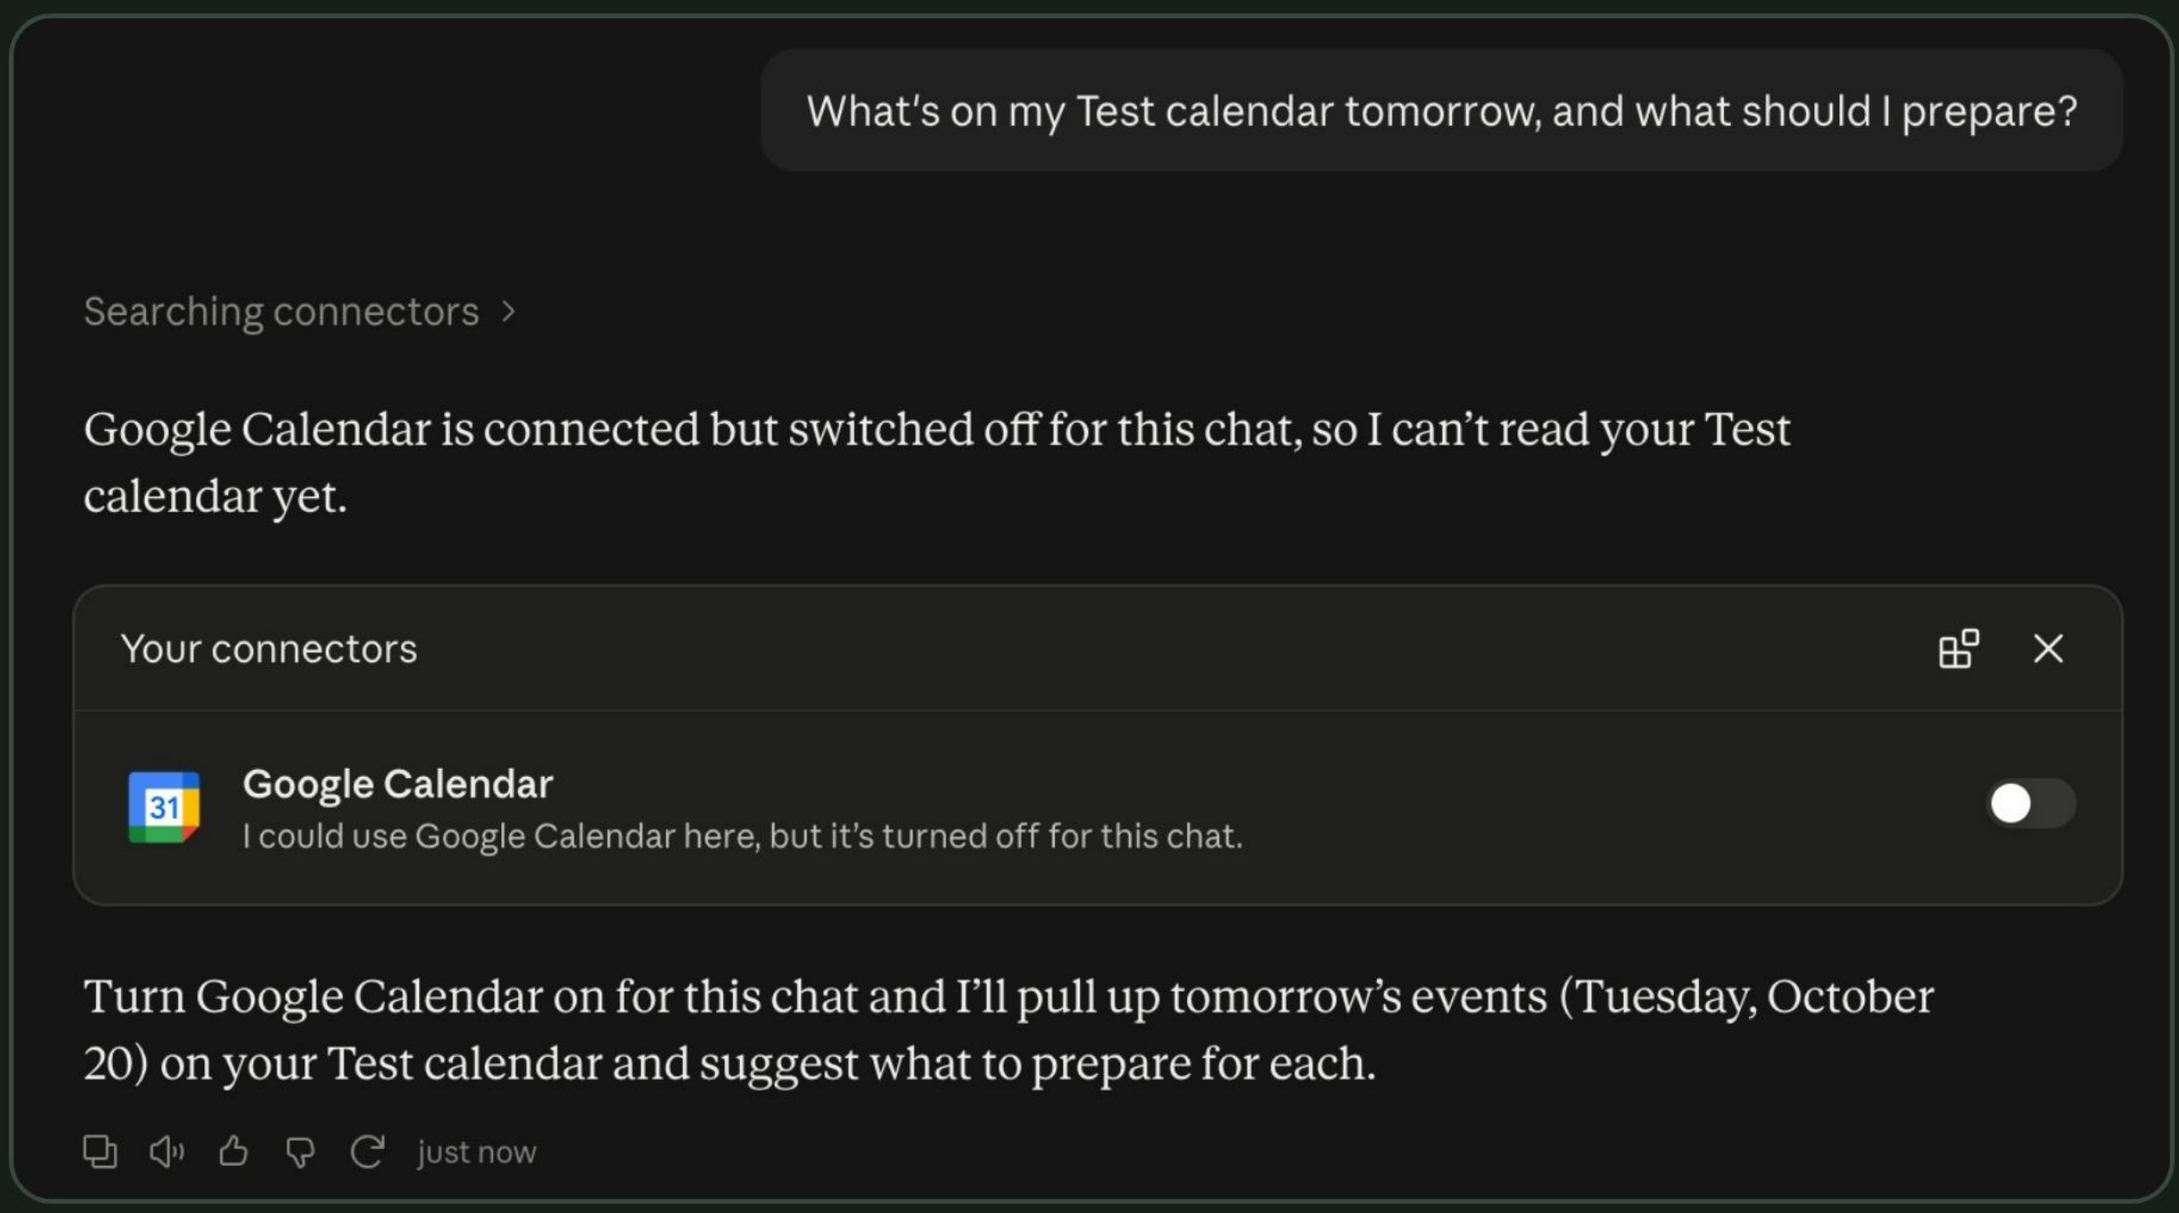

3. Sign in with Google and approve

4. In a chat: + > Connectors > switch it on

Our screenshots: a separate calendar named Test, with four made-up meetings.

BEFORE

"What's on my Test calendar tomorrow, and what should I prepare?"

Connector off in this chat. Claude can't read the calendar.

AFTER

Connector on. Same question.

What's on my Test calendar tomorrow, and what should I prepare?

Loaded tools, used Google Calendar integration ›

Tomorrow (Tuesday, 20 October) your Test calendar has four meetings:

09:00–09:15, Team stand-up. Just the daily check-in. It's worth having a one-line status ready on each of the three customer calls that follow, so the team knows what's coming.

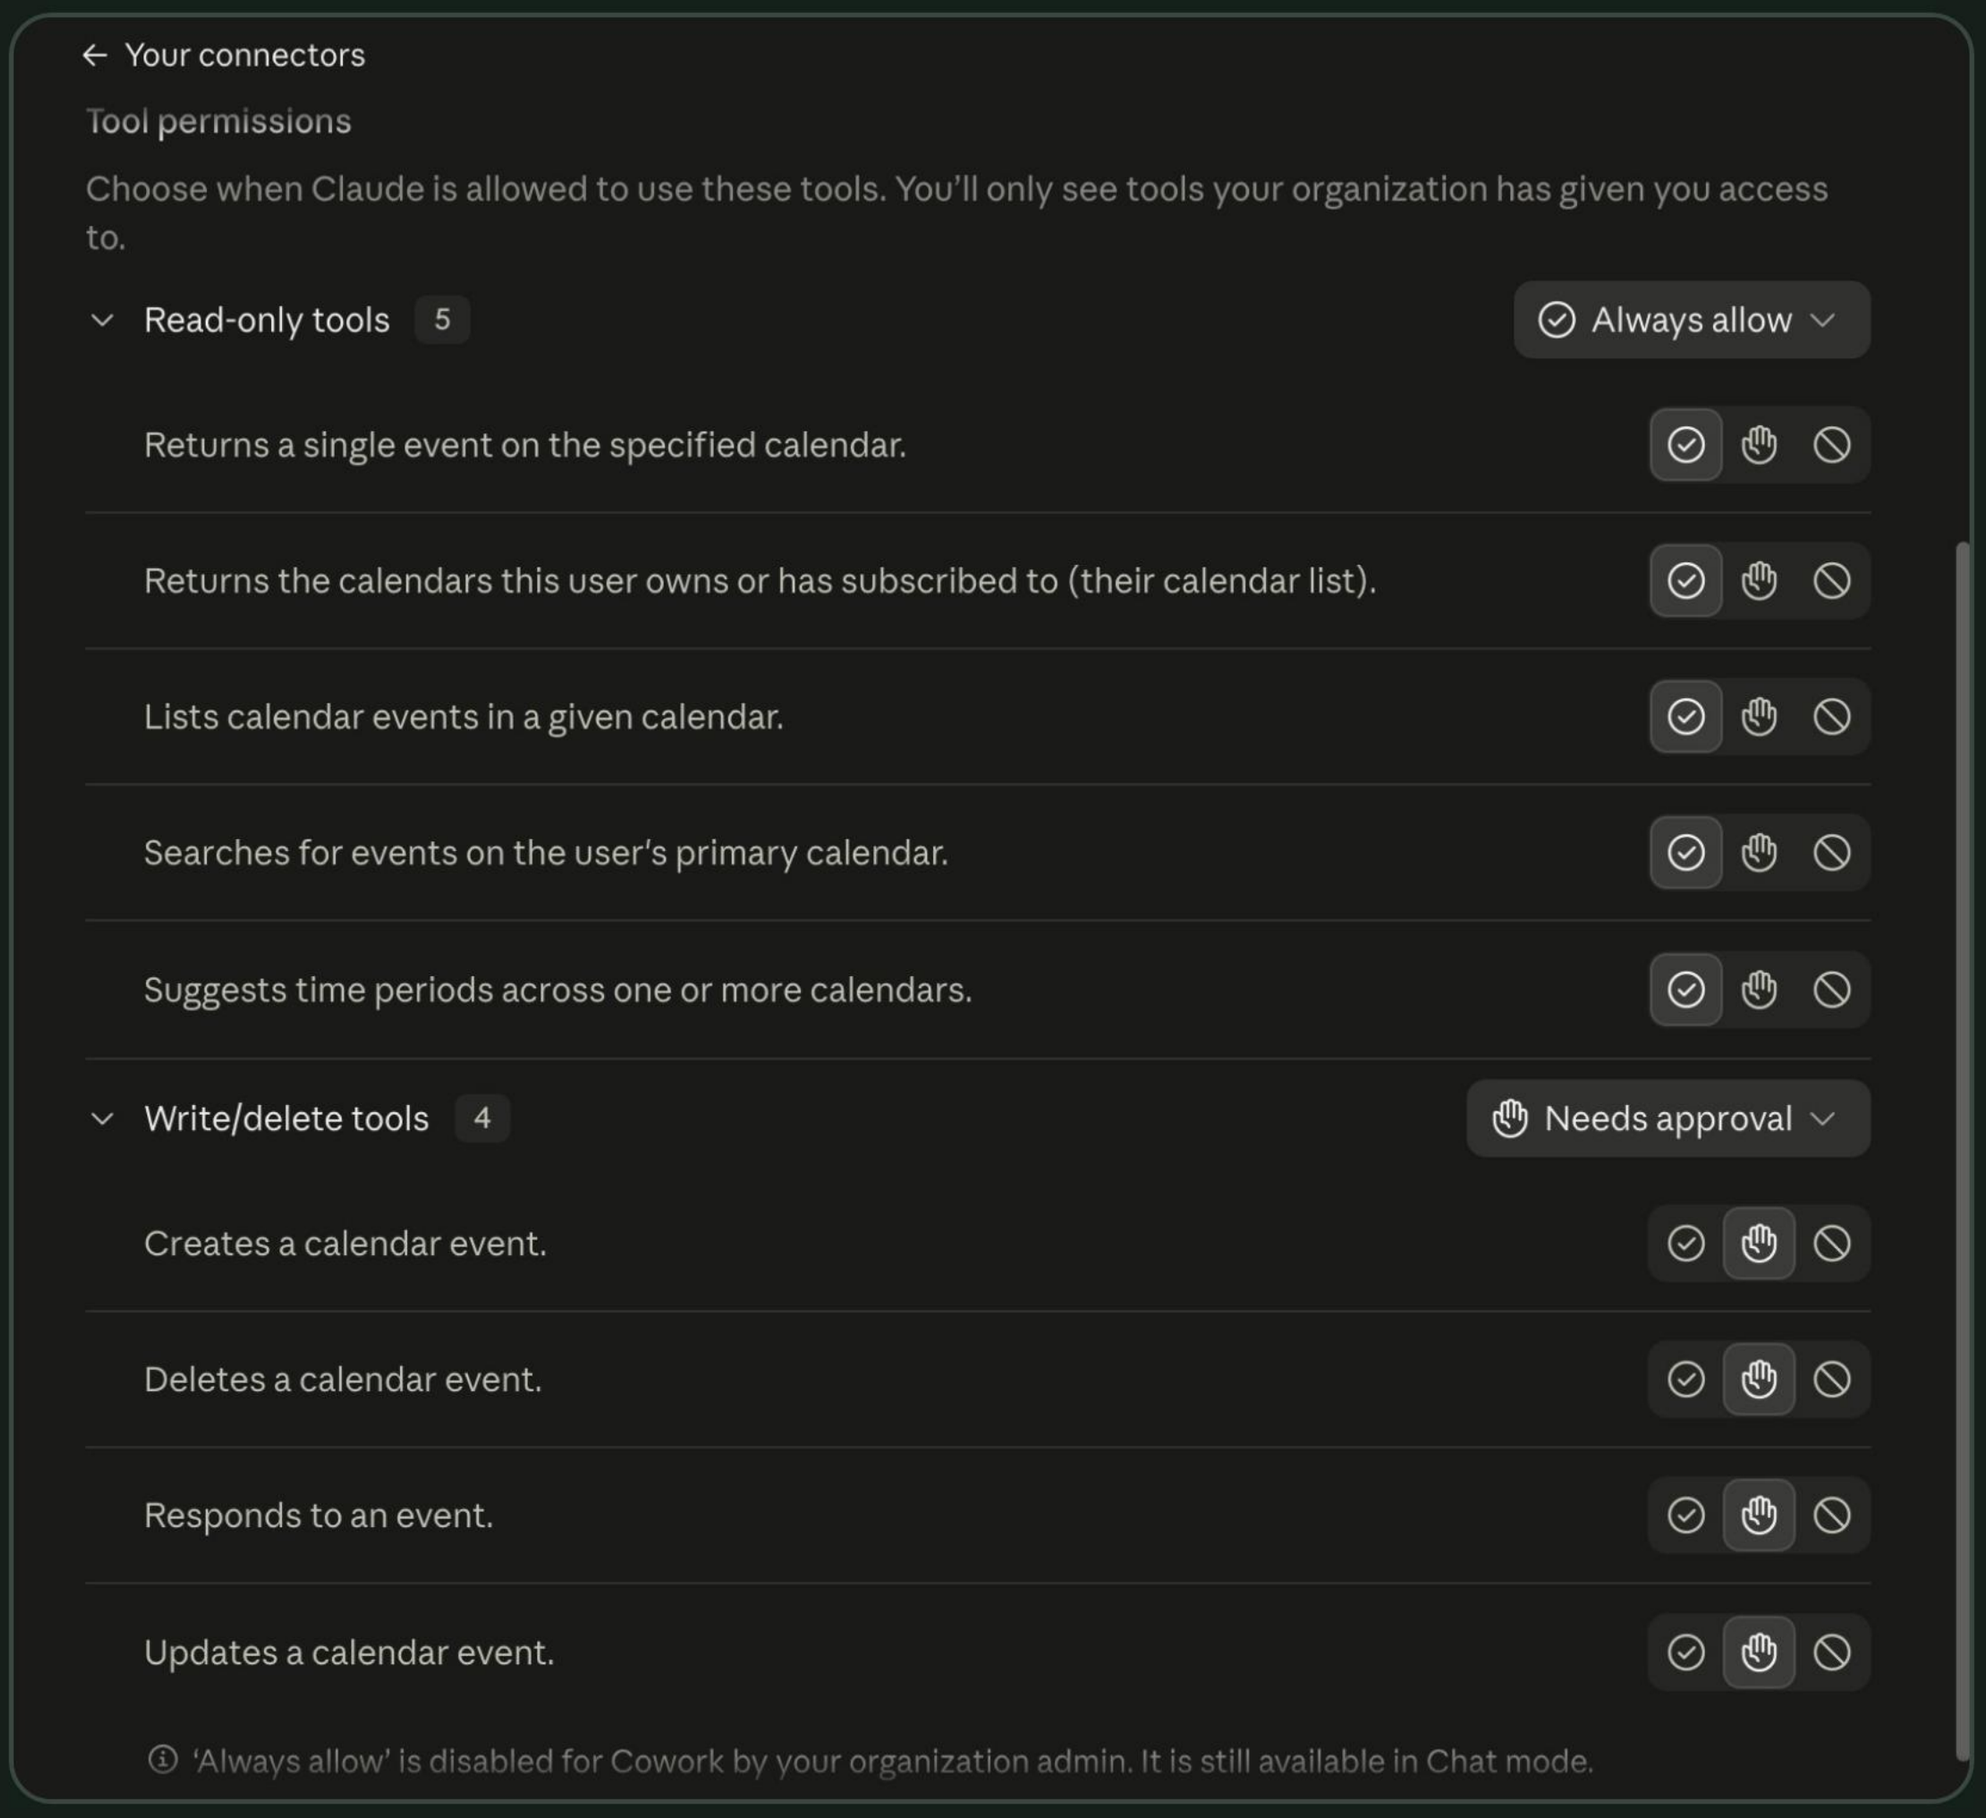

10:30–11:00, Gamma Tools renewal call. This one needs the most prep. Their contract ends 30 November, so you have about six weeks, and they will ask about next year's price. Before the call, decide what you're offering for both road transport BE–NL and pick and pack, and how far you're willing to move. Pull their current rates, this year's volumes, and any cost increases you can point to (fuel, wages, tolls, warehouse costs) so the price change is backed by numbers. It also helps to know what you'd want in return if they push back, such as a longer term or a volume commitment. And be clear on the timeline: when you need a signature to avoid a gap on 1 December.

13:00–13:30, Alpha Retail fuel surcharge. They want to know why the fuel surcharge is billed separately from the truck price. Prepare a simple explanation: the base rate covers the truck, driver and fixed costs, while the surcharge follows diesel prices up and down, so neither side has to reprice the whole contract when fuel moves. Have the index the surcharge is linked to, the formula, and a recent month's calculation ready to show them, plus an example of when it went down. If they'd prefer an all-in price, think beforehand about whether you could offer that and what buffer you'd need to build in.

15:00–16:00, Beta Foods volume review. Their volume is close to 400 pallets, so check what price applies above that threshold before you go in. Look at their recent volume trend to see whether they'll cross 400 regularly or just occasionally, and work out what the new tier would mean for their monthly invoice. Decide whether you'd raise the tier proactively or wait, and whether you have the capacity (trucks, warehouse space) if they keep growing.

BEFORE YOU TRUST IT

It can also change your calendar.

Customize > Connectors > Google Calendar. Check that changes are on "Needs approval".

THE RULE

Reads on Always allow. Changes on Needs approval.

Never "Always allow" for a tool that changes things.

The safety checklist and the four test meetings are free:

github.com/jwconsultancyteam/ai-starter-kit

Tomorrow: the same job every week? Teach Claude the job once.